As the great Bodhisattva Mother Goddess, Kwan Yin directs the Flames of Mercy and Compassion to the Earth under the authority of the Violet Fire with Saint Germain. Kwan Yin is a Member of the Karmic Board for this planet, representing the Seventh Ray* and keeps the Flame of the Divine Mother on behalf of the peoples of China, Asia, and the world. She has taken the Vow of the Bodhisattva to serve Planet Earth until all its evolutions are ascended and free. Call upon her sword of mercy and the Sacred Fire healing powers of forgiveness to intensify the Love that will dissolve all fear and doubt from your life and that of all Humanity. Her etheric retreat is over Beijing, China and her mantra is "Om Mani Padme Hum".

Lady Quan Yin ... embodies the qualities of compassionate and loving kindness and she is also a powerful Master of healing. She heads the Temple of Mercy which is situated in the ethers over the foothills of the mountains north of Beijing, China, which is also the retreat of her and her twin flame, Lao-Tsu. This temple is said to have a central pagoda with a golden dome, rising above 12 surrounding pagodas, each of which focuses the Yin and Yang qualities of the 12 Solar Hierarchs. Within each of the 12 temples one can hear the "music of the spheres" which encapsulates these energies, and hanging over each doorway within each temple are pieces of crystal mounted in a precious metal that chimes each temple's note as the winds blow through them.

Quan Yin is the Divine Feminine aspect within Buddhism, equivalent to Mother Mary, Isis and Shakti in other world belief systems. Her full name means "She who listens to the cries of the World" and she has vowed to remain in the earthly realms until all other living souls have completed their own enlightenment. In many images she is depicted carrying the Pearls of Illumination and longevity, which were created by Lao Tsu and are connected to her role as Chohan of the Pearl Ray.

She is often shown pouring a stream of healing "Waters of Life," from a small vase (she refers to this as "The Flask of Immortality"). With this water all living things are blessed with physical and spiritual peace. She may also hold a sheaf of ripe rice or a bowl of rice seed as a metaphor for fertility and sustenance. Some also see her riding a dragon, both an ancient symbol for high spirituality, wisdom, strength, and divine powers of transformation, and a symbol of the serpent and the polar and complete energies held by Lucifer/Lux'eon.

Her symbol is a lotus flower, and her electronic signature a 5-petalled lotus.
